London, UK; July 18, 2008: CleanEquity Monaco 2009 – the global Cleantech conference, announces Barclays Wealth as lead sponsor of the event. Regional host of CleanEquity Monaco is the Chambre de Développement Economique de Monaco (CDE), that also constitutes Monaco’s national committee of the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC). We are also honoured to announce that the Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation, following the success of the February 2008 event, is supporting CleanEquity Monaco 2009.

CleanEquity will showcase up to 50 international next generation environmental technology companies. Approximately three hundred delegates will represent the corporate business, political, construction, and media communities. The conference offers business development opportunities; space for investors to exchange intelligence; and a platform for experts to discuss new concepts in the environmental technology sector.

“Climate change is on Barclays Wealth’s strategic agenda as an asset allocation and diversification opportunity for clients and to guide the business owners of companies in this sector through a sale or exit strategy,” said Francesco Grosoli, Managing Director of Barclays Wealth. “As a company which constantly aspires towards innovation and visionary thinking Barclays Wealth, is proud to sponsor a forum which represents some of the world’s most innovative businesses.”

“It is wonderful to once again provide the home for CleanEquity Monaco. As regional host to this annual Cleantech conference Monaco continues to demonstrate its drive and concern for the environment and environmental issues, respectively,” commented His Excellency Franck Biancheri, Monaco Government Councillor (cabinet minister) for External Affairs and International Economic and Financial Affairs and Chairman of the Chambre de Développement Economique de Monaco. “Monaco is proud to play a part in the success of these important Cleantech companies and in keeping the world informed of new environmental technology developments.”

“The Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation is keen to reduce the environmental impact caused by human activities, specifically those contributing to climate change, by supporting innovative emerging renewable technologies,” said His Excellency Bernard Fautrier, Vice-President and CEO of the Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation, “this is why we are supporting CleanEquity’s presence in the Principality.”

CleanEquity is the second annual conference of boutique investment bank, Innovator Capital. The annual conference selects the most exciting early stage companies that will lead the worldwide Cleantech sector.
